An appeal for Yuletide hospitality has been sent out by MRS. SHIRLEY BAKER (women's activities and housing). Faculty and staff wishing to open their homes to students from abroad are asked to contact her in M Hut, Gordon Head Campus, or telephone 477-1841, local 392.

The "Treasure Van" of the World University Service of Canada arrives at the University early next month for its annual sale of international handicrafts. This will be held in the upper lounge of the SUB from November 7 through November 10. Daily hours are noon to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Faculty and wives who can donate an hour or two to act as clerks are asked to call DR. JOHN McINERNEY at local 313, Gordon Head, or 383-1063 (Julie Paone) or 382-9566 (Zinna Rosso).

Oxford University Press has just published Building Canada: An Architectural History of Canadian Life, by DR. ALAN GOWANS (chairman, division of art and art history, school of fine arts). The work examines developments in Canadian architecture within the framework of social history, with many illustrations.

Regional boundaries of Australia's 226 aboriginal languages are shown for the first time in a map prepared by the University's department of linguistics, and drawn in the department of geography. DR. GEOFFREY O'GRADY has used the findings of six years of field research. Copies of the large-scale map are going to linguists and anthropologists throughout the world.
